Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-10 and 13-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by Landsman et al [Landsman 6,314,451 B1]
3. As per claim 1, Landsman discloses a method of providing presentations (i.e.: an advertisement) to a user node over the Internet, comprising:
 - providing a presentation instructions data file (i.e.: Ad controller), the presentation instructions data file including content (i.e.: text, audio, video) and instructions (i.e.: Ad descriptor file) on presenting the content [Landsman, Ad controller agent selected advertisement, downloaded and subsequently presented, col 16 line 55-col 17 line 23, col 25 lines 30-67] download a HTML code includes tag;
 - providing a presentation engine (i.e.: Transition Sensor applet) with functionality common to a plurality of different presentations (i.e.: different advertisements), the functionality including at least functions of receiving the presentation instructions data file, running the instructions associated (i.e.: Ad Descriptor file) with the presentation instructions data file, and playing the presentation [Landsman, Transition Sensor applet supplies Ad controller applet with an Ad Descriptor file, col 27 lines 49-65] ;

Art Unit: 2142

receiving a request from a user node for the presentation;

selecting the presentation from the plurality of different presentations;

determining if the user node has the presentation engine; if the user node does not have the presentation engine, then delivering the presentation engine to the user node; delivering the presentation instructions data file to the user node for the presentation [Landsman, ensure the executable code for the transition sensor applet , if previously downloaded into the browser cache has not been superseded by an updated version, If the updated version existed, the browser updated it, col 13 lines 1-25; determine If an updated version of the Ad controller has not been downloaded to the browser, col 20 lines 40-60];

if the user node has the presentation engine, then delivering the presentation instructions data file to the user node for the presentation; wherein the presentation engine is delivered to the user node only if the user node does not have the presentation engine, whereby a total amount of data sent to the user can be reduced [Landsman, reducing download time, col 22 lines 4-26].

4. As per claim 2, Landsman discloses the presentation engine comprises a Java applet [Landsman, Java applets, col 20 line 60-col 21 line 12].

5. As per claims 3-7,14,15 Landsman discloses the presentation instructions data file comprises text, script, audio, video, images [Landsman, text, col 1 line 60; audio, video, col 4 lines 7; multimedia, col 5 lines 55-60; col 7 lines 28-42; col 25 lines 34-39].

6. As per claim 8, Landsman discloses delivering the presentation instructions data file comprises encrypting (i.e.: compression) the presentation instructions data file [Landsman, compression form, col 6 lines 46-67; col 7 lines 28-42].

7. As per claims 9 and 10, Landsman discloses delivering the presentation instructions data file comprises delivering a single file and a plurality of files as inherent feature of delivery advertisement file on Internet which includes text, audio, video or image [Landsman, text, col 1 line 60; audio, video, col 4 lines 7; multimedia, col 5 lines 55-60; col 7 lines 28-42; col 25 lines 34-39].

8. As per claims 13 and 17, Landsman discloses determining information about the user node and selecting the presentation based on the user information, selecting the presentation based on the user node, selecting the presentation from a series of related presentations as inherent feature of Internet.

9. As per claims 16, Landsman discloses the presentation engine includes functionality for verifying (i.e.: identifying) that the user node received the presentation

[Landsman, Transition Sensor applet identifies both the agent server and source components, col 18 lines 52-col 19 line 2]

10. As per claims 18, Landsman discloses selecting the presentation from a series of related presentations [Landsman, a series of Web pages, col 8 lines 41-67]

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Landsman et al [Landsman 6,314,451 B1] in view of [Guedalia [6,356,283 B1].

12. As per claims 11 and 12, Landsman discloses the application programs exchange commands and data with the external sources via network connection. However Landsman does not detail sending an initialization command for causing the user node to open a second channel to receive the presentation and issue the request for the presentation.

It was well-known in the art that a browser with multi threads function could open a second channel (or connection, link, window) which provide a second view to user [see Guedalia,Goldberg references].

Art Unit: 2142

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the Server dynamic HTML system enables a user view a digital image by using interact command by sending a HTML page to the user via a second channel [Guedalia, second channel, col 13 lines 42-59; col 14 line 61- col 15 line 5; col 22 line 62-col 23 line 9]. Doing so would provide a dynamic and reliable, efficient process to delivery multimedia data to Web client.
